

To Solcon Partners, Clients, Suppliers

During these challenging days that we as a global community are going through, at Solcon Industries we are monitoring the developments closely.

Please note that enquiries and orders are being processed as usual. Our employees continue to work either from their home base, or from the Solcon premises as we follow the strict guidelines set out, so as to be sure that they remain unexposed and in good health.

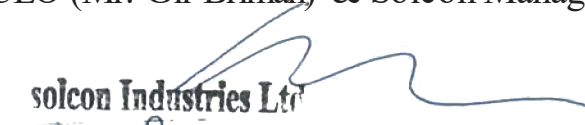

The support of our partners and suppliers are surpassing our expectations, as we maintain continuous daily correspondence with them so as to ensure minimal disruption to your supply and to avoid potential business impact as best we can.

New orders will be treated and confirmed based on the developing government guidelines and work force that we will have available at that time.

Solcon Industries is committed to the support of its customers all year round, and in particular in this difficult time. We will do our utmost to provide you with any updated information as the situation evolves.

Please stay safe.
